"His mentorship and involvement have awakened our students to the possibilities of careers in music performance and production," CEO Jacko said.

The Henry & Inez Stone Music and Sound Production Studio, the result of a gift from the Mr. and Mrs. Stone's great friend, philanthropist Gloria Martin, is a state-of-the-art music production facility at Miami Lighthouse and home to a one-of-a-kind music program for blind and visually impaired teens to learn the skills they need for mainstream employment in the music professions. Mr. Stone settled in Miami in 1948, established his own independent publishing companies and launched more than a dozen Miami-based record labels, including the famed T.K. label, shaping the disco era of the 1970s and creating what was dubbed "The Miami Sound". The 12" T.K. Disco series earned Stone 23 gold and platinum records in the '70s. KC and the Sunshine Band, on the T.K. label, had six number one pop singles, four number one R&B singles, and gold, platinum, and multi-platinum albums.
